13th June	Glen Rosa Horseshoe Race	Glen Rosa	The Glen Rosa Horseshoe race is a Category AL Scottish hill race covering a distance of 20km with a total climb of 1670m. The race was started in 1989 by local hill runner Dave Freeman who wanted to create a hill race on Arran with minimum tarmac which challenged competitors to navigate four of Glen Rosa's summits in a clock wise loop. The race fell by the way side in 2015 due to unforeseen circumstances but was resurrected in 2025. Runners entering the race must have run a minimum of two similar races and be able to navigate the route sufficiently in bad weather conditions. There will be checkpoints at various locations on the hill that all runners must visit plus cut off times to be aware of but the race is mostly unmarked, running on heather and granite.
